

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am taking this opportunity to apply for the vacancy you advertised for a web developer. I believe that the qualities you seek from a candidate matches my skills and abilities.

My main believe is that a great website is not measured by looks alone, but mostly by functionality and usability. That why in every software I build I strive for finest functionality.

Aside from my technical skills, on a personal level I also have the talent for building close relationships with other specialists. I posses the communication skills needed to get the best out of others and to make sure we are all moving in the same direction.

Through this application I am expressing my sincere desire to work for your company, where I will have an opportunity to work with the brightest and best software developers to deliver exceptional software.

Finally, I would like to thank you for taking your time to consider my application. I hope, after reviewing my CV, you will consider me for an interview.

Kind regards,
Kwanele Gamedze
